Denver Pastor Publishes Guide to “Dangerous Discipleship”

October 27, 2010 – Do you like to live dangerously? Christian Discipleship, when done correctly, is dangerous business. Rev. Ryan Whitson, pastor of Broomfield Community Church in Denver, Colorado, has authored an instructional guide for pastors and church lay leaders to use in the vital work of developing the Christian disciples in their midst. Hear what others have to say about this extraordinary book:

“What Ryan has done is to create a spiritually sound and practical, useful tool that will be an enormous benefit to all believers. The book breaks the gospel and Jesus’ message ‘to go make disciples of all nations’ into understandable and manageable pieces” (Mark Cicotello, Chairman of the Elders at Broomfield Community Church, and principal consultant at Spark HR Consulting).

“With a simple, unaffected style, Dangerous Discipleship introduces readers to the nuts-and-bolts truths and daily decisions at the heart of the Great Commission. As Whitson notes, this is not the seated, safe or primarily cerebral process sometimes mislabeled ‘discipleship.’ Rather, it is an invitation to Gospel-rooted choices that will turn upside-down our lives and, very likely, those of most everyone we know” (Jedd Medefind, Former Special Assistant to President George W. Bush and Acting Director, White House Office of Faith Based and Community Initiatives).

“If you are looking for a way to move your life and the lives of those around you from passive mediocrity to a headlong pursuit of Christ and His work in our world, this is the book for you!” (Phil Downer, President of Discipleship Network of America and Author of Eternal Impact).

"Dangerous Discipleship is honest and compelling. I appreciate the man behind these words." (Rick Whitney, National and Regional Director for the Great Commission Association of Churches, church planter, author, and Pastor of Vintage Faith Church in Manhattan, Kansas).
