

Iraq War Veteran Talks About Survival, Faith

Mobile, Alabama, February 3, 2012 – As America marks the 21st anniversary of the first Persian Gulf War, and prepares to mark the eleventh anniversary of the start of the second war in Iraq, retired Army medic, Kevin Zimmerman, reflects upon his service there.

Sergeant First Class (Retired) Kevin Zimmerman's personal story of how he survived combat in the first Gulf War and hidden landmines in Bosnia while he performed his heroic duties of rescue and first aid to wounded soldiers has just been re-released in a volume entitled A Time for Everything: The Kevin Zimmerman Story, Second Edition (published by Parson Place Press in January 2012). His repeated selfless service during the Bosnia conflict earned him the Soldier's Medal not only once, but twice, a feat that is rarely accomplished.

Filled with excitement, disappointment, hope, occasional tragedy, and inspiration, A Time for Everything enthralls readers as it follows Kevin Zimmerman from young adulthood to middle-age while he served faithfully as a U. S. Army medic for more than twenty years. It also responds to the question, "Do miracles still happen today?"

Robbye Durham, the Supervisory Librarian at Keith A. Campbell Memorial Library, Ft. Sam Houston Texas, says, "I would like to recommend A Time For Everything: The Kevin Zimmerman Story. This book would be especially beneficial for libraries located near military installations and/or reserve units."

A native of Toledo, Ohio, Mr. Zimmerman currently resides in San Antonio, Texas. Contact him directly by email at kevindevz@yahoo.com or by phone at [REDACTED] for interviews or speaking engagements.

A Time for Everything: the Kevin Zimmerman Story, Second Edition (ISBN: 9780984216369) is available wherever books are sold, as well as directly from the publisher. Bookstores and libraries may obtain it from Ingram Books or Follett Library Resources using the book's ISBN.
