Iraq War Veteran Shares Personal Story of Survival

February 1, 2011 – As America marks the 20th anniversary of the first Persian Gulf War, retired Army medic, Kevin Zimmerman, reflects upon his service there. Contact him now for interviews or speaking engagements. Be sure to get a copy of his personal story, A Time for Everything: the Kevin Zimmerman Story, by Michael L. White of Mobile, AL. A native of Toledo, OH, Mr. Zimmerman currently resides in McKinney, TX.

A Time for Everything is Sergeant First Class (Retired) Kevin Zimmerman's personal story of how he survived combat in the first Gulf War and hidden landmines in Bosnia while he performed his heroic duties of rescue and first aid to wounded soldiers. His repeated selfless service during the Bosnia conflict earned him the Soldier's Medal not only once, but twice, a feat rarely accomplished by anyone. A Time for Everything is filled with excitement, disappointment, hope, occasional tragedy, and inspiration. A Time for Everything will keep you enthralled as you follow Kevin Zimmerman from young adulthood to middle-age while he served faithfully as a U. S. Army medic for more

Michael L. White, who is the author of A Time for Everything, the managing editor of Parson Place Press, a pastor, and an Army National Guard Chaplain, says, “Of all the writing projects I’ve undertaken in my life, this one has certainly had one of the greatest impacts on me personally. This story most definitely deserves to be shared with everyone everywhere.”
