Move Over Beatrix Potter:

Amy Dyas Introduces a New Classic for Children

September 3, 2009 – Parson Place Press is pleased to announce the publication of The Robins of St. Lawrence Church, authored and illustrated by Amy Dyas. Set in the English countryside, this 128-page soft cover book, with full-color illustrations and easy-to-read font size, will both inspire and encourage young children with the heartwarming story of the Robins family's faith and triumph over hardship and danger in the small village of Marston-St. Lawrence.

Canon Dr. Graham Kings, Vicar of St. Mary's Church in Islington, London, says, “A delightful children's story set in an English country church and village, which intriguingly unfolds deep truths. A first book, which is full of promise.”

Amy Dyas was born and raised in Islington, London, where she lived until attending the University of Bristol in 2002, where she studied Classics. She married in 2006, and currently resides in Aberdeen, Scotland, with her husband, Rob.

Your children will beg you to read this story repeatedly as they lose themselves in the engaging narrative and exciting plot. Order your copy now and soar to new heights with The Robins of St. Lawrence Church!
